Hi,

It is my sincere hope that some party will allow the process of justice to continue. The Microsoft corporation has seriously suppressed innovation and competition in the software industry. It has been clearly found that the company has operated in an illegal manner, much to the detriment of consumers and competitors. It is my hope that these violations result in penalties of the greatest severity allowed by law. As one of the many who has been harmed by the illegal and immoral actions of the Microsoft corporation I have expectations that the justice system should perform it's function. The Microsoft corporation flagrantly abused it's monopoly and continues to do so. The company's behavior is making a mockery of the charges brought against it. The new Windows XP operating system incorporates programs which take the violations the company has been found guilty of to a new level. The taxpayer dollars spent on the legal proceedings should not be wasted. The criminal behavior of the Microsoft corporation should not be allowed to continue and it's past behavior should be severely punished, for the greater good of those who have suffered from Microsoft's foul deeds. Thus far no remedy I have heard of begins to address the crimes Microsoft has committed.
